ARE LOCKED AS TIGHT AS EVER

NO CHANGE IN GOVERNORIAL CONTEST

FIVE MORE BALLOTS TAKEN BY REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION—PROPOSITION TO RELEASE DELEGATES NOW PENDING.

WEDNESDAY'S BALLOTTING.

Yates	62	63	64	65	66
Lowden	404	401	407	411	411
Deneen	391	293	385	381	384
Hamlin	116	121	116	117	119
Warner	46	43	39	37	19
Sherman	52	51	52	52	51
Pierce	28	27	27	27	26

Springfield, June 1.—The Republican state convention took five more ballots to day without breaking the gubernatorial deadlock and without producing any material change in the standing of candidates. Three important propositions were presented to the convention during the day, all designed to end the contest. Two were rejected and the other is now before the committee on resolutions. These propositions were:

First, discontinue roll calls and vote by secret ballot. This came from a Deneen delegate, and was repudiated by Deneen and most of the other candidates.

Second, refer the governorship back to the party through primaries to be held on the same day throughout the state. This was proposed by Yates, but the other candidates were a unit against the plan and it was lost by a vote of two to one.

Third, that candidates be requested to release their delegates from further obligations and permit them to vote regardless of instructions. Both Yates and Deneen are opposed to it and it will probably be beaten if it gets out of the committee.

The convention assembled this morning with less fuss and feathers than on any previous session. The hall did not fill full and the delegates came in unarmed with signs, banners or placards. There was not a cheer for any one or anything. A couple of brass bands played short selections and quit. No candidate made a spectacular entry, even the governor cutting out his "down the middle center-stripe." After the announcement of telegrams and letters the sixty-second roll was called. The first change was a split up in DeKalb, where six voted for Lowden and six for Deneen and one for Yates. The county has been going for Yates solid, but six of the delegates decided to change. Colonel Elwood, head of the county, got good and even with them by delivering six of the delegates to Deneen, thus countering the Lowden gain. Massac county broke its five votes, giving only four to Yates and one to Lowden. The result showed a slight loss for Yates, who ended with 471. Lowden was the principal gainer, receiving 405.

When the sixty-second ballot had been announced the chair recognized H. H. Gross of the Sixth ward, Chicago, who offered the following resolution for seven secret ballots, and moved its adoption:

"Resolved, That when the next succeeding roll call shall have been completed further roll calls shall be discontinued and in lieu thereof the vote shall be by ballot, every delegate to secretly write upon a slip of paper the name of his candidate for governor, inclose and seal the same in an envelope; these slips to be gathered by the chairmen of the respective delegations when the same are called for and shall be carried by him, in full view above his head, and deposited with the secretary of this convention."

"Resolved, That the sergeant-at-arms is hereby directed to procure and distribute to the several delegations sufficient slips of paper and envelopes for seven such ballots."

"Resolved, further, That the ballot of absent delegates shall be cast as directed by the majority of the delegates present if the several delegations, as provided by the rules of this convention."

"Resolved, That the several candidates for governor may each appoint a teller to assist in counting the ballots so cast. Upon completion of the count the chairman shall announce the aggregate vote received by the several candidates. The ballots cast shall, after count and verification, be securely sealed and delivered to the chairman of this convention and by him burned as an unopened package immediately upon the recess of the convention being taken."

"At the conclusion of the reading of the resolutions Mr. Gross rose and began as follows: "The first and paramount duty of the delegates to this convention is to the Republican party"—

The speaker was interrupted by cries of "Louder" and Chardman Cannon gaveled for order. After several minutes Mr. Gross stood upon his chair and spoke as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the convention, it seems to me to be the paramount duty of the delegates to this convention to conserve the interests of the republican party of the state of Illinois. I hold that the success of the party is of vastly greater importance than the success of any or all the candidates that have been mentioned upon this platform. (Applause).

"For ten days and some sixty-one ballots we have been laboring here with a proposition, and apparently are no nearer a solution than when we began. The delegates of this convention have, in my judgment, very largely been voting their pride instead of their judgment. The situation is such that few men have the moral courage to make a change, though they believe a change is necessary and desire one to be made. It is manifestly evident to every member of this convention that no change can be made so long as every delegate votes for the man of his first choice. The second choice, after the first, may possibly be nominated. I offer this resolution because I believe it is manifestly fair. I offer it not in the interest of any candidate, and upon my own judgment, as being the surest, the fairest and speediest method of disposing of this proposition and breaking the deadlock. I believe the time has come when the delegates to this convention must take a hand in the management of it, and therefore I have offered the resolution."

Warden Murphy, leader of the Yates forces, moved that the resolution be referred to the committee on resolutions. On a voice vote the chair could not determine who was in the majority and he ordered a roll call. Clerco J. Lindsey made the point at the opening of the convention a rule was adopted referring all resolutions to the committee without debate. The chair ruled that this point had been made too late. He explained that even had this not been so, he would have overruled the point for the reason it must be apparent that the convention has the power to change its rules and methods of doing business at any time. The roll was then called on the motion to refer to committee. Adams started off in favor of reference. The Lowden and Deneen men voted "aye" also and it was soon seen that the motion had plenty to carry it through. The vote was as follows: Ayes, 424; nays, 28.

Chairman Walter Reeves then asked the resolutions committee to meet immediately. Chairman Cannon ordered the sixty-third roll call on governor.

During the adding of the last ballot Chairman Cannon discovered a number of small volcanoes in different sections of the hall. He showed his displeasure in his vigorous tones and determined air. He instructed the officers of the convention to put the men who were violating the orders out of the building, and if they were delegates to report them to the chair.

About the same time the bunch came to him that among the leading violators of the smoke ordinances were several deputy sergeants at arms. This aroused Uncle Joe's anger to still higher heights and he went after the gentlemen rough shod.

The motion was then made to take a recess until two o'clock, and was declared carried.

MAY END DEADLOCK

Committee Decides to Report Favorably the Resolution Releasing Delegates.

Springfield, June 1.—The sub-committee late to night decided to report to the full committee favorably on the resolution releasing delegates from instructions. The Yates and Deneen leaders, after numerous conferences, have mutually decided to offer no opposition. In this case the vote in the convention for the resolution will be unanimous. The prevalent opinion is, however, that, as it is only the expression of an opinion or sentiment, it will be disregarded by the delegates and will have no material effect on the deadlock.

GOT THE RESULTS.

Chicago, June 1.—In an effort to withhold race results from pool rooms officers of the Hawthorne track held their patrons locked gates to day, refusing entry until after the fifth race. Threats of damage suits had no effect. Agents of the pool rooms succeeded in getting the information, however. From a telegraph pole on the east side of the tracks a lookout armed with a powerful field glass telephoned the results to the pool rooms.

SHOT BY BURGLAR.

Dubois, Pa., June 1.—Early to day Captain Lahey, postmaster of Falls Creek, was probably fatally shot by burglars.

Later one of the burglars was shot by Rev. Dr. Chrislom, pastor of the Presbyterian church, as he was about entering the latter's residence. The wounded burglar was captured and is in a critical condition.

RACE FOR DERBY STAKES.

London, June 1.—The race for the derby stakes, 500 sovereigns, about one mile and a half, at Epsom to day, was won by St. Ament; John Ogaunt, second; St. Denis, third. Eight horses started.

WYOMING FLOODS.

Green River, Wyo., June 1.—Floods in the Green river and tributaries have cost at least two lives and much damage to property. A messenger has just arrived here with news from the inundated district. All streams in that section are out of their banks and lowlands are flooded.

HEARST LOSES IN MICHIGAN

FAILS TO SECURE INSTRUCTIONS FOR PRESIDENT

CAMPAN CONTROLS THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION—NEBRASKA DOMINATED BY BRYAN AND PLACES HIS VIEWS BEFORE PUBLIC.

Detroit, June 1. The anti-Hearst element in the Michigan Democracy, headed by Daniel J. Campan, of Detroit, national committeeman from this state, triumphed over the Hearst supporters at every stage in the Democratic state convention here to day and an unstruck delegation will be sent to the national convention. While there are some Hearst men among the district delegates to St. Louis, the delegation was instructed to vote as a unit.

The first test of strength was on the report from the committee on credentials. By a vote of 57 to 50 the minority report of the committee, seating the contesting Hearst delegation from Manistee, the only county from which there was a contesting delegation, was tabled.

Following this victory Campan was re-elected national committeeman from Michigan and of four delegates-at-large chosen not one was a member of the Hearst element. Hearst members of the committee on resolutions dissented from the platform prepared by the majority and prepared a minority report, but after the majority report was read failed to present their platform.

The following were elected delegates-at-large to the national convention: Daniel J. Campan; James M. Smith; James R. Gray, editor of the Atlanta Journal; Charles R. Pendleton, editor of the Macon Telegraph.

OKLAHOMA DEMOCRATS.

Omaha, June 1.—Both Parker and Hearst followers were defeated in to day's Democratic convention, which elected delegates to the national convention.

The delegates were instructed to "act in conjunction with those who supported the party in the last two presidential elections."

PEOPLES PARTY DELEGATES.

Springfield, June 1. The state central committee of the People's party of Illinois to day elected thirty-six delegates to the national convention. The delegation is headed by Joseph Hopps, chairman of the state committee.

RIOTS ARE IMMINENT

Thousands of Italians Without Money or Food Flock to Montreal.

Montreal, June 1.—Bread riots are imminent here unless the thousands of Italians who have flocked in from Europe, New York, Boston and other large cities of the United States can be fed at once.

There are at least $600 without money, food or shelter. Others have shelter, but no food. The Italian Charitable Immigration society has made its last distribution of bread and there are no funds available for further relief. The police are preparing for trouble.

INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION.

Mohawk Lake, N. Y., June 1.—The tenth annual conference on international arbitration opened here to day with a large attendance. The exercises consisted of an address of welcome by A. K. Smiley, prayed by Dr. Edward Everett Hale, address by Judge George Gray of Delaware, who presided; Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood, Boston, secretary of the American Peace society; Dr. Hale, Thomas Nelson Page, Gen. James Grant Wilson, Prof. M. Pelpinger and Prof. John H. Gray.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN

CLOSING DAY OF ASSEMBLY WAS A BUSY ONE—BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

Greenville, Pa., June 1.—The closing day of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church was extremely busy.

Washington, D. C., was selected as the next place of meeting, to be preceded by the present time as opportunity for their earnest and courageous promulgation, with a chief executive who has disregarded constitutional limitations, stirred up antagonism between races, employed all powers of his office to secure re-election and purchase political support by turning the treasury department over to the financier and putting the law department into the hands of trusts—with such a chief executive and with Republican leaders openly and arrogantly in alliance with organized wealth, the country imperatively needs return of the government to the positive and clearly defined Democratic principles. Democracy is taught by Jefferson and exemplified by Jackson is the hope of the republic and offers the only relief from the plutocracy which now dominates the Republican party and through the party the country.

The Democracy would administer the treasury department in behalf of the public, not as now, in the interest of Wall street; it would prevent recoupling of legal tender silver dollars into limited legal tender subsidiary coin; it would secure to the people a volume of standard money sufficient to keep pace with the demand for money; it would favor paper money issued by the government, without intervention of national banks; it would resist attempt to establish an asset currency and branch banks and would oppose loaning of government money to favored banks, a scheme by which the people's money is employed to lay the foundation for a campaign fund and to

PARTY BIRTHDAY TO BE OBSERVED.

Fifty years ago, on Aug. 4, 1851, the Republican party was launched upon the political sea at Ottawa, Ill. It has been decided to celebrate the golden anniversary in notable style on the first of August, 1901, at that place, and already extensive preparations are under way by the leading members of the party in Illinois. It may not be possible to secure the presence of President Roosevelt, although he will be given an urgent invitation. The nominees for vice-president, governors, state officers and many other men prominent in public life will be present and deliver addresses.

The semi-centennial celebration is to be the formal commencement of the campaign of 1901 in Illinois, and if the attendance from outside states is up to expectations, it may be said to be the beginning of the campaign for the party in the entire country. No more interesting political anniversary could be celebrated, and the fact that the Republican party is fifty years old and with a matchless record in the political history of the United States will be a powerful aid to the success at the polls in November. The leaders of the organization in central Illinois are keenly appreciative of the effect of a successful demonstration such an occasion, and that it will appeal to national scope and importance seems assured.

The meeting in Ottawa on Aug. 4, 1851, promises to grow in historic interest when its history is exploited and some of the events connected therewith are recalled.

J. F. Linton, of Columbus, Ohio, one of the few survivors of the meeting, recalls that Casius M. Clay, of Kentucky, visited northern Illinois about a month prior to the Ottawa convention in 1851 and addressed meetings in Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Elgin, Bloomington and other places, exciting a great deal of anti-slavery enthusiasm. His speeches had an influence toward the calling of the Ottawa convention. The call was brief and read: "A general mass meeting for all those opposed to the encroachments of slavery, without distinction of party, to organize such opposition as may be deemed necessary and expedient."

The Rock Island railroad granted a half fare to those attending. The attendance was estimated at 500. The farmers were in the midst of their harvesting and hands were demanding from $2 to $5 per day. The time, therefore, was inopportune for a large attendance. Of those present it was estimated that about one-half had been acting with the Whig party, one-fourth with the Democratic and the remaining fourth with the Free Soilers.

The meeting was harmonious upon the question of restricting slavery and keeping it out of the territories, but there was some difference of opinion as to the expediency of organizing a new party, and when it came to the choice of a name, some vigorous objections were made to the name "Republican." In the end, however, the resolutions were unanimously adopted substantially as reported by the committee. At the delegate convention held in Bloomington on the 12th of September, to nominate a candidate for congress, objections were made both to the name and some of the planks in the Ottawa platform.

The questions were debated with a good deal of warmth throughout the greater part of the afternoon, but it was finally decided that the party was formed, its principles agreed upon, and its name fixed at Ottawa, and that the convention had but one duty to perform, simply to choose a congressional candidate. A resolution was adopted declaring that "No person could be eligible for a nomination unless he unequivocally stood upon the platform of principles adopted at Ottawa, and pledged himself, if defeated for the nomination, not to run as the candidate for any other organization." Jesse O. Norton was then called upon and in a brief speech fairly and unequivocally accepted the situation. Churchill Coffin followed in felicitous speech, endorsing everything done at Ottawa, withdrawing from the contest for congress and moving the nomination of Norton by acclamation.

Abraham Lincoln addressed a meeting in that city in the evening after the adjournment of the Ottawa convention, and approved of the movement and name. It will be noticed by those who search the files of the papers published in Illinois at that time that the suggestion of the convention that all succeeding state conventions be called under the name "Republican" was acted upon generally throughout the state during the following month.

Mr. Linton says that the famous Ottawa convention was held in the open air in front of the present site of the court house. At that time it was a commodious yard with large shade trees. Wells Wait was the temporary president of the convention and Judge E. S. Leland the permanent. The secretaries were: E. T. Bridges, LaSalle; Thaddeus Hampden, editor of the Ottawa Republican, and Mr. Linton, who was then editor of the Peru Chronicle. A committee on resolutions was appointed, consisting of Churchill Coffin, of Peru, who was chairman; Pidder Thorne, A. A. Fisher, A. Woodruff, John Hosford, L. D. Smith, Wells Wait, S. R. Lewis and G. W. Jackson.

While this committee was preparing the resolutions Rev. M. P. Sweet, then pastor of the Methodist church in Peru, and who was the Whig candidate for congress in the Chicago district in 1850, being defeated by Long John Wentworth, addressed the meeting. He was one of the most eloquent and impassioned denunciators of slavery ever heard at a political meeting in the country.

The committee on resolutions reported, in part, as follows: "Resolved, That in cooperation with the friends of freedom in other parts of the union, we hereby form ourselves into the 'Republican party' pledged to the accomplishment of the following purposes to-wit: To bring the administration back to its original principles of liberty; to restore the prohibition of slavery to the territories of Kansas and Nebraska, and to prohibit it in all other territories now belonging to or hereafter acquired by the United States; to repeal the fugitive slave act of 1850; to permit the states where slavery exists to continue to be weakened and injured by it till reason, removing the veil from their eyes, shall induce them to benefit themselves by its abolition; to protect the constitutional rights of all citizens going to other states; to advocate the democratic and oppose the aristocratic principle at all times and on all occasions, without exception."

The Ottawa mass meeting chose delegates to the congressional convention in Bloomington Sept. 12 and also arranged for county conventions in LaSalle, Grundy and Livingston counties to select delegates for a sectional convention in Ottawa on Sept. 2.

LYNNVILLE.

The rain which came Sunday and Monday interfered considerably with farm work in our vicinity. A number have more or less corn to replant and the growth is not in fit condition to work.

Bro. E. L. Bowen's visit last week was very much enjoyed and fine audiences gathered him.

Miss Frank Gordon was able to visit Jacksonville friends last week.

Mrs. E. W. Crum and son Edwin, of Glasgow, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Jones.

Mr. Williams, of the Jacksonville Business college, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McKinney for several days last week.

Misses Roy Heaton and Carl Gordon were in St. Louis attending the world's fair most of the past week.

A number of our young people were in attendance at the ice cream festival held at Hickory school house Saturday evening. A pleasant time was enjoyed.

The M. W. A. fraternity here will have a festival in the school house yard on the 1st of June (Saturday evening), to which everybody is cordially invited.

The young folks of Lynnville and Point neighborhoods are contemplating having a fishing party Wednesday afternoon. The beautiful Monon river will be the stream where they expect to angle for the tiny tribe.

POINT.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, of Jacksonville, spent Sunday with relatives in this neighborhood.

The many friends of Leslie Richardson will regret to learn that he is still very seriously ill.

Misses Jennie Lazebny and Lula Mason and Frank Hanson and Herbert Mason were recent visitors at the home of Walter Bobbitt, near Chaplin.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schumaker, of Ashland, are visiting at the home of G. G. Rose.

Most of the farmers in this vicinity have finished corn planting and many are now at work cultivating.

JUNE WEATHER RECORD.

The weather history of the month of June is briefly and succinctly given in the bulletin issued by the weather bureau giving data from the records of the department for twenty-four years past. These facts are not to be construed in the nature of a forecast for the coming month. The bulletin shows the mean temperature of the month to be 72 degrees. The warmest June was in 1890, when the mean was 56 degrees, and the coldest in 1900, when the mean was 67 degrees. The highest temperature for the month of June was 88 degrees on June 25, 1901, and the lowest 10 degrees on June 6, 1891. The average precipitation for the month is .45 inches, but in 1882 there was 12.71 inches of rainfall, being the greatest monthly rainfall recorded. The least monthly precipitation for June was in 1900, when it was 1.45 inches. The average number of clear days of June has been 8; partly cloudy days, 11; cloudy, 8; the prevailing winds for the month have been from the south and the highest velocity recorded was forty-four miles an hour, on June 22, 1901, when the wind blew from the northwest.

SQUIRREL SEASON OPEN JULY 1.

The first game that may be lawfully killed during the summer of 1901 is squirrel. The open season begins July 1 and closes Dec. 31. For woodcock it is from Aug. 1 to Dec. 1; snipe and plover, from Sept. 1 to May 1; eggs of prairie chicken, grouse, quail, wild turkey, duck, goose, brant, song or insectivorous birds must not be destroyed or removed from the nests. Owners or occupants of land may kill birds or animals that destroy fruit or property.

Owners of farm lands, their children or tenants may hunt or kill game on their own farms during the open season without procuring a resident license, but they violate the law if they hunt beyond the lines of their own farm lands without first having procured a hunter's license. Non-residents who hunt game in the state of Illinois must take out a non-resident's license. Such license may be secured from the county clerk, and must be carried while hunting.

Copies of the game law may be had by addressing A. J. Lovejoy, Bascooe.

NO COMPETITION.

RELATIONS BROKEN OFF.

Appleton, Wis., June 1.—Relations between paper mill employers and employees, which have been strained to the utmost, unexpectedly broke to day. The Combined Locks mills' employees to day refused to go to work. Other mills' employees are to follow before Saturday. To day's action was taken after a statement by mill owners, in which they asserted that two and a half years' dealing through the union had proved to them the union cannot be relied upon to carry out its contracts.

Dr. Morton, of Taylorville, was in the city Wednesday to bring a patient to Central hospital. He is a son of Rev. Mr. Morton, who was pastor of Westminster church a number of years ago. He graduated in medicine at Northwestern University in 1900, and is doing well in his profession.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Testing Seed Corn.

The Ohio experiment station predicts trouble with seed corn this year. The corn dried slowly last year, and hard weather came early. Tests have shown from 60 to 80 per cent of vitality. Before planting the corn should be tested. A convenient way to test corn is between sheets of moist paper or cloth placed in a box of suitable size. Several lots may be tested at once and examined much more easily and quickly than when planted in sand. Simply keep the paper moist and where the temperature does not fall below 55 degrees. It should all germinate in from four to eight days, depending upon the sort of corn weather furnished. Handled in this way it is possible to examine it daily and note the progress of germination. There are different degrees of vitality in corn that will germinate. Many of the weak, spindly stalks which produce a small nubbin or nothing at all spring from seed of barely enough vitality to get the plant above the ground. Seed that will grow fairly well when conditions are favorable at seeding time will rot if cold, damp weather happens to prevail. If possible, use only such seed as has large, bright looking germs. Wrinkled and dull colored germs have likely been injured by freezing. Plumpness at the tip is an evidence of vitality. Thin, shrunk kernels having sharp pointed tips should be rejected as well as those having an excess of soft, white starch at either crown or tip.

Potato Experience.

There is one operation that many farmers might well make a change in, and that is in the method of planting potatoes, says F. H. Dow in American Cultivator. To cover with a hand hoe to slow a process, and it can be better done by horsepower too. My own method is as follows:

After the field is nicely harrowed I open furrows three feet apart with the horse hoe, and after the seed is dropped the covering is done with the same implement, which leaves a ridge over the seed. In about a week the smoothing harrow is drawn over the field, which partially levels the ridges and destroys millions of little weeds.

In a few days the operation is repeated and again in a few days afterward. Soon the potatoes appear, and then the horse hoe throws a little dirt on them, which smotheres the weeds and invigorates the potatoes. This operation, too, is repeated in a few days, and by running the cultivator or horse hoe between the rows at intervals of a few days until the tops are so large as to be disturbed there is usually but little trouble from weeds.

Stick to the Farm.

If every farmer in Illinois who is able to move to the city and build him a new home would stay on his farm and spend the same amount of money in improvements, this would be the most beautiful state in the Union—and the garden spot of America, says A. J. Lovejoy in the Chicago Record-Herald.

This is an age of specialism and concentration of thought and ideas along one line, either in manufacturing, commerce, farming or stock breeding, which will result in a large business being built up and a reputation established for whatever is manufactured or produced. If manufacturers can build up a large business by giving special attention to one or two lines, why cannot a farmer by making a specialty of some one or two things become an expert in these and also build a large business and a lasting reputation that will command a market and a good price for all he produces either in the growing of grain for seed or the breeding of live stock for the market or for the breeder?

Experiments With Oats.

Some interesting Alabama oat experiments are noted by the department of agriculture, showing a largely increased yield through the use of nitrate of soda. The average results of three experiments show that fall oats receiving a hundred pounds nitrate of soda per acre yielded 14.75 bushels more than the check tests. With nitrate at 3 cents a pound and oats 60 cents a bushel the net profit per acre for the nitrate area was over $4 for the grain alone, while the increased yield of straw was a third of a ton.

On spring sown oats the use of nitrate of soda and cottonseed meal as fertilizers was either without effect or actually detrimental. Seeds скалдены for ten minutes in water at 133 degrees F. produced a crop from smut, while oats unscalded contained 3 per cent of smutted heads.

The Robin and Fruit Trouble.

Let us understand about this robin and fruit struggle. Fruit growers do not want to exterminate the robins. They would not go out of their way to kill them. What they want to do is to protect their property. We feel sure that some robins, if not all, have changed their food habits—and that they eat far more cultivated fruit than they are worth. That being so, the owners of the fruit are quite justified in driving away or destroying such birds. Let no one fear that the robin will be exterminated. He is quite able to take care of himself. If, as the naturalists say, the bird lives mostly on insects and wild fruits, he will not suffer if driven from the fruit garden.

Rural New Yorker.

The farmer should be and no doubt will be his own packer in the near future. Farm and dairy products are easily packed for the home market and become more valuable as the producer becomes acquainted with simple methods which preserve both flavor and quality.—Farm and Ranch.

Farmer His Own Packer.

The municipal regulations of Berlin insist that refuse, ashes and all that is generally though inaccurately summarized by the term "dust" should be carried through the streets in air tight receptacles.

SHORT STORIES.

The cost of taking the first census was a little over a cent per head, that of the last census 17 cents.

Tourists returning from abroad can now bring through the custom house free of duty all articles to the value of $100 except cigars, cigarettes and liquors.

Rear Admiral Walker estimates that it will take the steady work of 40,000 men who can stand the climate eight years to finish the digging of the Panama canal.

A funeral in Mittineague, Mass., was postponed a day because the gravedigger from sympathetic motives refused to dig a grave for the body of a deceased friend.

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

There were 6,000 duels in Germany last year, with a mortality of twenty-two, as shown by official reports.

More than one-third of Berlin's expenditure of 141,000,000 marks last year was for sanitary and educational purposes.

Lace For Summer Millinery.

Immense use is made of lace, which is usually tinted, rarely quite white. All sorts of lace are in request; the heavier styles of guipure motifs and garlands with raised patterns for interlocking and application work; Brussels, meadowlark and other pillow lace for draperies and also for ceiling shapes covered plain with two or three layers of pale blue mousseline or tulle. Something is done with black chantilly, particularly as a trimming for black picture hats, further decorated with black plumes.

Straw braids figure among the trimmings of made-up hats. For this purpose they must necessarily be of a light description. Plain straw, rice straw and fair braids are applicable, as well as lace woven braids wrought in guipure patterns and used as a substitute for lace. In some of these models the entire trimming is carried out in applique or with incrustations rendered all the more effective by reason of the semitransparency of the foundation. Besides the guipure of straw braids, intervals will be occupied by medallions of fine lace formed in ruchings of narrow ribbon, or better still, with chaplets of small roses. Even when bows of ribbon enter into the scheme of decoration these will be sewed down flat on the shape so as to form incrustations in relief.—Millinery Trade Review.

An elegant chiffon frock is in the fashionable shade of corn color. It has six accordion plaited boucles around the front and seven in the back, and around the middle of each boucle is a band of lace medallions of filmy lace in a deep cream color. A twist of gold colored chenille outlines these lace medallions very effectively. The medallions are of graduated sizes—smaller ones in the top bands of lace and larger ones in the bottom, where one ruffle will have a large medallion on it and the alternate ruffle will have a smaller one in the band. The yoke has two boucles around it and two bands of lace, and the sleeves have two boucles and two bands of lace and are accordion plaited, like the blouse, and shorter. The girdle is wide, of drawn folds of liberty silk, covered with appliques of the lace and finished in the back with a silk braid ornament and dangles to match.

The Land of Paper.

The Japanese use paper at every moment.

The string with which a debt is paid is called "darling of the gods" does up the articles you buy is made of paper. The handkerchief (thrown away after use) is paper, the partitions dividing the houses are paper, and the pane through which an indiscernible eye looks at you is paper! The pane is certainly wanting in transparency, but there is a simple remedy, says Home Notes. One finger is passed through the paper—that is all! Afterward a small piece is stuck on the opening with a grain of rice. The men's hats, the cloak of the porter who carries his burden, singing a cadence, through the rain; the garment of the boatman who conducts you on board, the tobacco pouch, cigar case—all are paper! These elegant flowers ornamenting the beautiful hair of the Japanese ladies and those robe collars which are taken for crapes—paper!

The Rat's Good Points.

A successful rat show was recently held at Cheltenham, England. There were sixty exhibits of black, gold, gray, white, piebald and tan rats.

Some agricultural journals commenting on it maintain that the rat has an economic future and may become a delicacy in England, as it is in China.

To many people the show is the first correction of the impression that rats are all alike, whereas the varieties of them, all more or less alike in characteristics, are quite numerous. The first display having been a marked success, others will no doubt follow and the rodent be studied with increasing attention, the prospect, however, of finding out anything good about him being not at all promising.

Night has been turned into day in all of the large exhibit palaces. Numerous electric lights have been put in place, and scores of workmen are busy night as well as day installing the exhibits.

The Belgian building, one of the largest and handsomest in the foreign section, is remarkable in that the walls are not broken by a single window. The large structure is well lighted by immense skylights seventy-five feet above the floor.

AN HONORABLE RECORD.

Wednesday Robert Preston Lewis gave up the place of sexton of Westminster church, which he has held since 1886. During this time he has performed the duties incumbent upon him in an exceptionally faithful and satisfactory manner, and his withdrawal will be a matter of regret to those he has served. To be a sexton, and to be prompt at the ringing of the bell, on time, and to be on hand early and late, rain or shine, for a period of eighteen years, is an unusual thing. In that time the sexton has seen the passing of the old church; was witness to the new one before it was completed, and has had full charge of the new edifice for over four years. In the years past he has attended to the house; has been present at festivals; has opened the doors for weddings, and has tolled the bell for funerals, and has become a part of the institution.

Jeffries' orchestra furnished a splendid musical program and delicious refreshments were served when the program was half concluded.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, and Mrs. Neil Duckels.

SPELMAN-ROTTGER.

A very beautiful afternoon wedding was that which occurred Wednesday at 3 o'clock, when Harlan Fitch Spelman and Miss Wilhelmina home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna M. Rottger, on East State street. The wedding was a very quiet one, only immediate relatives and intimate friends being present.

The bride was becomingly gowned in French lawn, made entwined, and carried bride's roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Windor and is highly esteemed by her many friends. The groom is a prosperous young farmer. Both have many friends who join in wishing them a happy and prosperous life.
